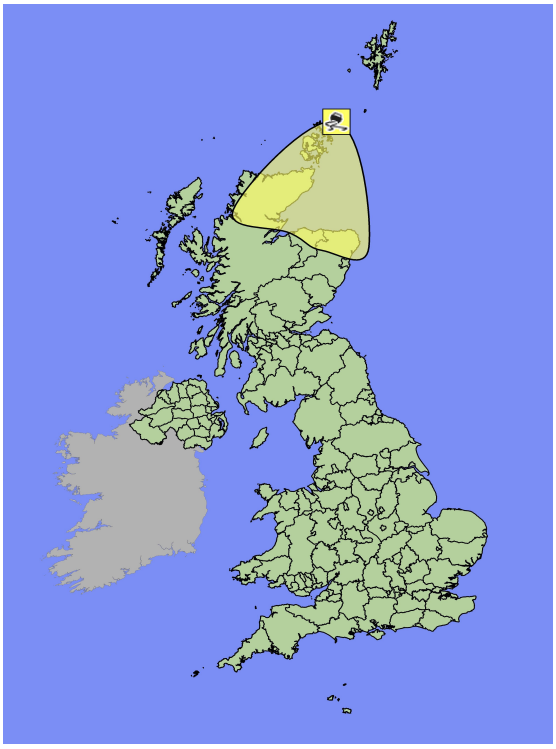
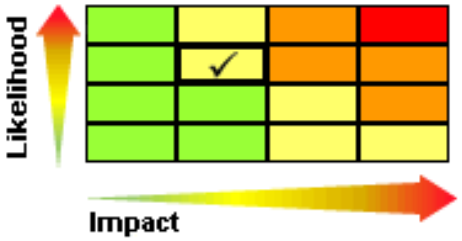
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A weak front is continuing to give showers of a wintry mix across northern Scotland. Where these leave the ground wet, ice is likely to form on untreated surfaces overnight as skies clear.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 21:00 on Wed, 12th Dec 2012 until 11:00 on Thu, 13th Dec 2012

Showers will continue to affect parts of northern Scotland through Wednesday evening into Thursday morning. Between the showers temperatures will fall away below freezing with icy stretches forming.

The public should be aware that roads and pavements may become icy as a result, particularly those that are untreated.
